Written for The Times.
DePAUW.

From the State where the pines in their wind,
Lispings lines,
Join in song with the waves of the ocean,
To that far-western State with its grand golden gate,
The fame of DePauw is in motion.

And its just that 'tis so, since virtue should go
To the limit of farthest creation,
And virtue is here, as is shown every year,
For DePauw is the pride of the nation.

But I ask from whence comes this far spreading fame,
Which reaches beyond the blue sky,
Which in mute admiration, now tells to the nation,
That the name of DePauw cannot die.

Did it come from the wind, borne from Ormus,
or Ind,
Did it come from the sunshine or sky,
Did it come from the stars, from Venus or Mars,
Did it hail from the region on high?

No, it came from the men, who again and again,
Have given their wealth and their prayers,
From a gift that was grand, by a generous hand,
Whose name it now sacredly bears.

And it came from the men, who with effort and ken,
Have battled for freedom of thought Whose hearts did rebound, where at last they had found
The end which they earnestly sought.

On Ashby's crown of fame and renown,
Hang the proud laurels which Coffin has won
On the dome of DePauw, inspiring with awe, Beveridge's banner is kissed by the sun.

PENCILINCS.

The city schools close two weeks
from to-morrow.

Fires and overcoats were essential to comfort last week.

The Fair associations have begun to put forth their lists.

Greencastle wants to know what she has done that we can't have a circus.

The Adventists have fixed upon May 19 as the next date for the world to make its exit. If this thing is to be kept up indefinitely they will hit it yet.

A new street, is to be built immediately, west of the Taylor property, running from Seminary to Walnut,
and will be called Taylor street. It will have stone sidewalks, John Mo-rarity being contractor. It is a private enterprise.

Pat Ryan has been chosen by the Police Board of the Common Council as policeman for South Greencas-tle. Pat makes an efficient and reliable officer, and the citizens of that part of town, as well as Mr. Ryan himself, are to be congratulated upon his selection.

"Squibs" are the life and vinegar of a newspaper, but when the squib-ber loses his respect for veracity they soon bring him into contempt. Newspaper falsifying is not materially different from the old fashion kind, and both should be shunned as a leper, and allowed to wallow in their own mire.

Prof. Lee has finished an enumeration of school children in this city.
There are 1,761 between five and twenty one years of age, of whom 116 are colored. There is only a gain of twelve over last year's enumeration, nine of the gain being among the colored children. The professor found only two children—one boy and one girl—between ten and twenty-one who could not read and write.

The procession of Briggs Democrats is a formidable body and the recruiting process continues amazingly. The drum major end has gone by, and, stepping to the tune of "Marching through Putnam," they are already battering at the inner gates of the court house, while the after end of the procession is still circling about in the remoter regions of Jackson township. It is an august pageant and carries with it the seal to the doom of the ring.

Local Art Notes.

Mrs. Ed Black is engaged on a large brass plaque.

Miss Mary Corwin is engaged on a crayon portrait of her sister's child.

Mrs. Jenkins, of the wood carving class, is engaged on a very handsome bracket.

Mrs. Clay Lewis is working on a large canvass 20x36 with the design in landscape.

Mrs. Ben Durham has lately finished two very beautiful floral designs in oil on brass.

Miss Alice Blatchly of Mrs. Haze-lett's class, has gone to the Cincinnati School of Design.

Miss Emma Nelson is achieving much success with her suburban classes. Miss Nelson is now engaged on a beautiful landscape on a 16 inch plaque.

Miss Kate B. Miller, of Brick Chapel, under the instruction of Miss Emma Nelson, is becoming quite an expert in the manipulation of the brush.

Mrs. Josephine Throop has on exhibition at Cumbach's a finely executed portrait of F. A. Arnold. The work is in crayon and shows rare skill and naturalness.

Mr. J. M. Cox, of Indianapolis, had on exhibition last week two fine oil paintings lately purchased in this city—one was a figure piece and the other a design in landscape.

Among the Churches.

Evangelist Harrison is conducting a successful revival in Louisville.

Rev. W. R. Halstead was here
Thursday, on business connected with the South Greencastle charge.

W. M. Nelson will lead the discussion of the question, "How to Promote Regularity of Attendance," at the teachers' meeting at Locust Street tomorrow night.

There will be a meeting of the young men of Greencastle in the Presbyterian church on next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, for the purpose of perfecting a Y. M. C. A. or organization. All our young men are earnestly requested to be present.

Quarterly meeting next Saturday and Sunday at Locust Street church.
The presiding elder, Rev. W. R.
Halstead, will preach four sermons—at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Saturday, and the same hours Sunday.
There will be love feast Sunday at 6 a. m., Sacrament at 3:15 p. m.

Mrs. F. T. McWhirter and Mrs.
Dr. Martin were delegates from Locust Street church to the Indianapolis District meeting of the Woman's Foreign and Home Missionary societies at California Street M. E. church, Indianapolis, yesterday. The former read a paper on "A Model Auxiliary," and the latter discussed the question, "How is the establishment of Homes an Evangelical Agency?" Mrs. Richards and Miss Lida Bachelder also attended from here.

Dr. Cissel's sermon Sunday morning at College Avenue church was logical, earnest and eloquent. It was directed more especially to young people, pointing out the tendency and dangers of falling into skepticism, also the remedy that will drive out all species of infidelity from the human heart. His eulogy of the Bible was grand, and the shots at the books of Hume, Voltaire, Bolling-brook and others of like ilk, were of telling effect. It is a safe guide to follow the old land marks.

BRILLIANT DOUBLE WEDDING.

The Kahn-Kahn, Weiler-Kahn Nuptials Monday Evening.

The fashionable society event of the season among our Hebrew fellow citizens, and their wide circle of friends, was the marriage Monday evening of Misses Clara and Anna Kahn, daughters of our old and respected towns people, Mr. and Mrs.
Levi Kahn, the grooms being Mr.
Lee R. Kahn, of Brazil, and Mr.
Morris Weiler, of Farmland. The nuptials were celebrated in the opera house, it being the only place affording the necessary accommodations for the festivities. The attendance was large, numbering probably one hundred, and was restricted largely to the friends and relatives of the contracting parties from a distance, but a few Greencastilians being among the favored ones. The ceremony was performed in one of the ante-rooms of the hall, which had been neatly fitted up for the occasion.
A wedding march by the orchestra,
stationed on the stage of the theatre,
ushered in the bridal party attended by the parents. Robbi M. Messing, of Indianapolis, pronounced the wedding covenant according to the Jewish ritual. After congratulations the company filed into the hall where supper was set on two long tables reaching the length of the room.
The collation, by the model restaurant, was a magnificent one, embracing the very best of everything, and was served in good style. During the repast regrets and congratulatory messages from absent friends were read,
and many of the guests at the table responded happily to calls for an expression. After the banquet the tables were cleared away and the hall
given up to promenade and dancing.

The list of presents was a long one, embracing diamonds from the grooms, and many other costly and elegant gifts. The happy couples left Tuesday morning for Indianapolis where they were tendered a reception by friends on Tuesday evening.

A number of handsome costumes were worn by the ladies present. The brides wore silver gray Lyons silk,
cut low and trimmed in oriental lace, ornaments, diamonds and natural flowers. Mrs. Levi Kahn, mother of brides, wore dark olive Lyons silk.
Mrs. Saul Kahn, mother of groom, black brocade silk, diamond ornaments; Miss Rosa Weiler, sister of groom, black silk and embossed velvet, diamond ornaments; Mrs. R.
Kirschbaum, black embossed velvet,
diamond ornaments; Mrs. D. Kahn, black silk dress trimmed in white silk lace, diamond ornaments; Mrs.
Charles Weiler, garnet satin, natural flower ornaments; Bertha Kahn, garnet silk, white lace; Rosa Kahn
brown silk, valenciennes, lace; Mrs.
Isaac Kahn, brown silk; Mrs. Ed
Isaac, black satin, natural flowers;

Mrs. Chas. Isaac, black silk; Miss Carrie Fisher, pink satin diamond ornaments; Miss Kate Elliott, white cashmere and white lace; Miss Edith Kahn, pink satin and white lace, diamond ornaments; Miss Blanch Kahn, blue satin, white lace, diamond ornaments; Miss May Kirschbaum, pink satin and flower ornaments; Mrs.
Leon Kahn, bronze silk, diamond ornaments; Mrs. Hinia Cohen, brocade velvet, diamonds; Mrs. Sam Arb, black silk, bead trimmings, diamond ornaments.

Among the many guests from a distance were the following:
Dave Kahn, Sam'l Isaac, P. S.
Wheeler, Lou Cox, W. E. Paine,
Frank McClenman, John McDowell,
jr., Ed. Isaac and wife, R. Gundelfinger and Sam'l Seigle, all of Brazil.
Mr. and Mrs. Abe Weiler, Adolph and Dave Weiler, all of Hartford
City. Myer Weiler, Mr. and Mrs.
Chas. Weiler, Miss Jessie Weiler,
of Farmland. Mrs. Rose Simons,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Simons, all of Louisville. Fird Arb and Miss Bee-ca Arb, of Dayton, O. Mr. and Mrs. R. Kirschbaum, Miss Minnie,
Gertie and May Kirschbaum, all of Union City. Mrs. Sam Arb, Henry Mendel, Henry Myer, all of Cincinnati. Miss Carrie Fisher, of Ft.
Wayne. Mr. L. G. and J. J. Ruble, of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kahn,
Mr. and Mrs. Levi Kahn, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Kahn, Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Myer, Mr. Henry Kahn, Mrs.
Mike Ezekiel, Mr. and Mrs. Dave
Kahn, Miss Edith, Blanch and Carrie Kahn, Mr. Michael Banberger, Mr. and Mrs. Hinia Cohen, all of Indianapolis.

The Sherwood Concert.

The Wm. H. Sherwood concert, which occurred last Tuesday evening,
was a grand success musically, socially and financially. Greencastle is to be congratulated for her strong interest in the highest types of musical art.

This interest has been developed,
step by step, from the time of the founding of the DePauw School of Music. Our interest has risen from the light performances of two or three years ago, and we now feel that we are walking hand in hand, in matters of high art, with the best of our American countrymen.

Mr. Sherwood, from the Sonata
"Appassionata" to the Grand Polo-naise, fairly carried us away by his grand interpretation. Surely it seems to us no one could do more.
His technique, expression, rubato and general conception were rendered with such precision and faithfulness to the text that nothing more was left to be desired. The Sonata was full of passion, and the Prelude and Fugue were filled with poetical tenderness. So might we go through the entire program, taking up each number, the Maestoso, of Schuman;
the Nocturnes, Etudes, Ballades and Polonaise, of Chopin; embracing modern technique and expression in such quantity as to suit the most fastidious. We must not forget the little gem of Mr. Sherwood's, called the Idylle, nor the Mennet by his uncle. The audience was fairly charmed during the performance of the Rubenstein Etude, and the Spinning Song and Fire Charn of Wagner.
The Liszt Polonaise formed a fitting close to the program.

The pianoforte, the largest in the United States, filled the hall to re-pletion. Mr. Sherwood left for Chicago on the midnight train. We are certain, should Mr. Sherwood come to us again, and we hope he will soon, he will have a full house, and one that will be as interested as the audience of last Tuesday.

A Woman and Her Butcher-Knife.

Monday morning there were some rumors of a cutting scrape in the South End the night before, but the reports dwindled in significance as the facts became known. It seems that Wm. Young and George Steinnitz, two workmen at the rolling mill, were out on a "tear," and called at the residence of Mrs. Sadler to see one Madame Miller. They were not welcome, however, and upon insisting on entering, the Miller woman went at them with a butcher-knife and cut Young a slight gash on the head and his companion on the finger. Their injuries were unimportant. Mrs. Sadler swore out a warrant against the two men for assault and battery, and the next day Young was fined by the mayor. Yesterday Steinitz was also fined.

High School Commencement.

The graduating class at the High School being so large—thirty-six—only a representative performance can be had at the commencement, which occurs June 5. The teachers have selected the following speakers, as announced by Prof. Olcott Friday:
Misses Jessie Cowgill, Mary Nutt,
Grace Farrow, Kate Kahle, Mary
Olcott, Mary Bradley, Mary O'Brien,
Ella Griffith, Lizzie Heber and Mattie Smith, and Messrs. John Chenoweth, Albert Daggy, Ed Fry, Owen Overstreet and Ike Hammond.

The Iron Workers Speak.

At a meeting of the Hoosier
Lodge, No. 44, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, held last Monday night, the following resolution, which will be of interest to our merchants, manufacturers and contractors:

RESOLVED—That we, the employes
of the Greencastle Iron & Nail Co., will hereafter refuse to patronize any merchant, manufacturer, or contractor that uses or encourages the use of steel nails, as such is of no advantage to the consumer and detrimental to our trade.

The iron men feel the necessity of adopting some measures to protect themselves against the ravages of the steel industry which is rapidly paralyzing their business all over the country, and our local dealers should most certainly give it their most cordial support and patronage so long as the advantages of the steel nail are more imaginary than real.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWO.

Death of the Oldest Citizen in the County.

On Last Sunday, George Smith,
the oldest man in the county, and doubtless one of the oldest in the State, died of old age, in this city.
He was boarding with a family of the same name, but no relation, in the southern portion of the city. His remains were interred in Forest Hill cemetery on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Smith was born in Albany county, New York, January 27, 1783,
and consequently was 102 years,
3 months and 15 days old—older than our Government. He was over sixty years old when Washington first became President. His first vote was for Thomas Jefferson, at his re-election. He was forty-six when Jackson was elected President. He served in the war of 1812 as a teamster in the Quartermaster's department. He has been a great rover;
has lived in New York, Pennsylvania,
Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and Indiana.
He was among the first ten families living at Indianapolis. He has been both a miller and farmer; was always industrious. He has met with serious accidents, and has often been sick, but his excellent constitution carried him through. He was the father of ten children—all of whom died before him. His last illness seemed more the effect of old age than any specific disease, having been confined to his bed all winter.

Attempted Outrage.

James Bryant, a negro clock tinker,
living a few miles north of this city,
was arrested Tuesday night, on the serious charge of attempting to outrage Ella, the eleven-year-old daughter of John Ader, the flagman at the north depot. He went to the house Tuesday evening while no one was at home, the mother being at work in the mill, and finding the little girl alone in the room, attempted his foul purpose, but the suspicions of Mrs. Strother, who lives in the other part of the house were aroused, and she came in, when Bryant left. The girl had not been injured. He claims to have been only playing with her, but will likely have to suffer for it. He had been acquainted with the family for years, and was well acquainted with the child. He appeared before the mayor yesterday morning, pleaded not guilty, and was ordered to appear for trial to-day at 10 a. m.
He is so far advanced in life that his hair is tinged with gray.

Noble Generosity.

Mrs. Margaret E. Crocker, of Sacramento, California, widow of E. B.
Crocker, has shown commendable wisdom in disbursing some of her wealth during her lifetime. She has donated a large tract of land to the city cemetery, has erected an extensive and beautiful conservatory, has built and endowed "The Marguerite home" for aged women at a cost of $130,000 and recently has presented to the city the E. B. Crocker art gallery with its rich contents and ample grounds, aggregating in value nearly half a million dollars. The citizens have shown their esteem and gratitude for her munificence by giving an elaborate dinner on the anniversary of the "Marguerite Home." They also held on May 6 a free floral festival in honor of her life, and generous acts. Thos. Newton Booth, brother of Mrs. Ames, of this city, and Dr. G. L. Simmonds were on the committee of invitations, and reception. The following program was rendered on the occasion:

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Overture.
Grand march and congratulations
by children and youth.

Welcome song.
Music by band.
May pole dance.
Chorus by children.
Grand Chorus.
Music by bands.

EVENING EXERCISES.

Overture.
Grand march and congratulations.
Chorus.

Presentation of art gallery on behalf of Mrs. Crocker.

Acceptance on the part of the mayor.

Address by the president of the Museum association.

Music by orchestra.

Address by orator of the day and presentation of testimonial.

Grand chorus—"America."

THE TIMES

OVER THE STATE.

A handsome new steam launch has just been set afloat at Lake Maxinkuckee for pleasure parties.

Lucky Baldwin, the California millionaire, is an Indian, says the South Bend Times, having left Olive Township, St. Joseph County, a little more than twenty years ago.

The Frankfort Banner now publishes two papers a week, one on Wednesday and one on Saturday. The Banner is among the very best county papers in the State and, judging by appearances, one of the most successful.

The wife of James Dennis, who has been found guilty of the murder of the McMullens, near Elmdale, Montgomery county, has been returned from the insane asylum, and is at her mother's. She knew nothing of her husband's trial until she was told by her mother. Argument is being heard for a new trial for Dennis.

George K. Davis, the wounded express messenger, is reported about the same conditions as yesterday. His physician still entertains hope of his recovery. It is believed, however, if he recovers, he will be lacking in mental balance.

—[New Albany Ledger.]

An old hen at the farm of Mr. George Nowell, near Elkhart, has transferred her affections to that of a family of young kittens. She chases the old cat away, and spreading her wings over the whole number settles herself down, apparently satisfied that she is doing just the right thing. She has to be driven away long enough for the kittens to nurse.

On Wednesday afternoon, while five men were loading lumber at Peabody, a few miles west of Fort Wayne, on the Nickel Plate, a bolt of lightning struck one of them, John Wolford, on top of the head, tearing the crown of his hat out, tore a hole in the skull, ran down his neck and body to his hips, where it apparently went to the inside of the leg, and tore off his boot, killing him instantly. Matthew McFerran and Sam Ummel were prostrated, but soon recovered from the shock.

Will E. English is credited with having said that President Cleveland asked him to accept the position of Consul-General at London, and that he resigned. Mr. English is now in New York, but will return home shortly. It has been observed that he has managed to get through without taking any considerable part in behalf of anybody who is seeking office. Thus he has antagonized no faction of his party, and as a matter stands in excellent standing to be brought out as a compromise candidate to succeed Congressman Bynum.

There is a small tract of land, adjacent to Green Island, in the Ohio river, near Evansville, which is claimed as the territory of two States and there has been some dispute over it of trivial nature, between Indiana and Kentucky. The islands in the river belong to Kentucky, but the Green Island land lies on the Indiana side, but it is claimed that the channel of the river once ran north of it, while the State boundary line was established north of it. For this reason, Kentucky claims that the land belongs to her territory, and recently a sheriff came over and attached some personal property on that land. Governor Gray, while in Evansville this week, inquired into the questions involved in the dispute, but he has reached no conclusion regarding the matter.

A DEFINITION OF "INFAMOUS."

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There has been, every since the establishment of a judiciary system in this country, a doubt as to the meaning of the word "infamous" in the first clause of Article V of the amendments to the Constitution: "No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury." Recently an opinion was given by the supreme court on this point, which, stripped of its excessive and involved verbiage, seemed to decide that an infamous crime was one punished by imprisonment. Not feeling satisfied with this interpretation, District Attorney Bliss yesterday asked Judge Treat to define the Supreme Court's definition. The judge gave his personal opinion from the bench that it was not the intention of the justices to define as infamous infractions of the law those offenses which are punished by fines and short terms of imprisonment. His idea was, those crimes were infamous that might be classed in common laws as felonies, or the punishment for which is the same as that prescribed for felonies. It was deemed unjust to put upon a man who has simply disobeyed a law through neglect and carelessness the odium of the classification of his offense with infamous crimes though his punishment might be imprisonment.

The granite business on the coast of Maine is rather dull.

Ireland's population is now 5,100,000, 300,000 less than in 1841.

Iowa has a smaller proportion of women than any other State.

The Sandwich Islands sends 5,000 bushels of bananas to San Francisco monthly.

President Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University, favors a uniform system in the conferring of degrees by American colleges.

An employee of the cloak room of the House says that nearly every Southern Congressman habitually carries a pistol or a dirk.

It is likely that the Ancient Order of Hibernians in this country will furnish the twenty-four granite columns for the Daniel O'Connell memorial church at Cahirciveen, Ireland.

BAKING POWDERS.

INTERESTING TESTS MADE BY THE GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS.

Dr. Edward G. Love, the analytical chemist for the Government, has made some interesting experiments as to the comparative value of baking powders. Dr. Love's tests were made to determine what brands are the most economical to use as far as their capacity lies in their leavening power. They were directed solely to ascertain the available gas of each powder. Dr. Love's report gives the following:

Name of the Baking Powder.	Strength per cubic inch of Gas.
"Royal" (cream tartar powder).....	127.4
"Patapoco" (alum powder).....	125.2
"Lamford's" (phosphate) fresh.....	122.5
"Rumford's" (phosphate) old.....	122.7
"Hanford's" (alum powder).....	121.6
"Hanford's" (alum powder).....	121.6
"Redhead's" (alum powder).....	117.05
"Charm" (alum powder).....	116.9
"Amazon" (alum powder).....	111.9
"Cleveland's" (contains lime).....	110.8
"Sea Foam".....	107.9
"Car".....	107.8
"Dr. Price's" (contains lime).....	102.6
"Snow Flake" (Goff's St. Paul).....	101.88
"Lewis's" (Cauden).....	88.2
"Congress" yeast.....	75.3
"C. F. Andrews & Co's" (contains alum).....	78.17
"Hecker's".....	92.5
"Gillies".....	84.2
"Bulk".....	84.2

*In his report, the Government chemist says: "I regard all alum powders as very unwholesome. Phosphate and Tartaric Acid powders liberate their gas too freely in process of baking or under varying climatic changes suffer deterioration."

Dr. A. Mott, the former Government chemist, and Prof. McMurtrie, late chief chemist for the U. S. Government at Washington, say: The chemical tests to which I submitted the Royal Baking Powder, prove it perfectly healthful, and free from every deleterious substance."

AN ALL-DAY BATTLE.

MIDDLETON MEETS RIEL'S FORCES AT BATOUCHE.

A Scattering Fight That Lasted All Day with Little Result—An American Distinguishes Himself by Saving a Battery.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 11.—Gen. Middleton's troops had another skirmish with a large body of rebels near Batouche Saturday. The troops advanced seven miles from camp, the steamer Northcott keeping pace with them on the river. Suddenly a sound of the steamer's whistle was heard, followed by heavy firing in front and in the direction of the river. This was answered by a signal from the troops, and all pushed rapidly ahead. They came upon two houses near the bank of the river and advanced, when a party of rebels were met who fired and retired behind the houses towards a hollow. The Gatling gun was brought to bear on them when they ran into a house near the church of St. Laurent, which was also fired on by the Gatling, when the rebels ran out into the bush. A battery of artillery rushed to the front and sent several shells after them.

The grenadiers then advanced in skirmishing order until the church was reached, when a priest came out of the house waving a white flag. Gen. Middleton and staff advanced and shook hands with him and three other priests and five Sisters of Charity came out. A number of half-breeds and children were also inside in charge of the sisters. Father Monin, one of the priests, said the steamer arrived at a point a little above Batouche at 5:30 a. m., and the rebels immediately commenced firing on it from both banks. It shortly after struck a mud bank, but swung clear again. The vessel is supposed to be badly peppered, as the smoke stack is gone. She went back about three miles up the river.

The grenadiers advanced, skirmishing through the brush on the right of the trail, the Gatling being pushed forward down the declivity toward Batouche, which was now plainly visible in the valley below. Here a battery unlimbered on top of the ridge and opened fire. While doing so they were almost surprised by a number of rebels who crept through the bush, not being discovered until twenty yards distant. They made a rush for the guns, firing and yelling as they ran. Capt. Howard, of the American army, who operates the Gatling gun, saw the danger, and with cool daring ran his gun a couple of yards in front of the battery, and opening fire literally mowed the rebels down. Those remaining turned and ran, but reaching the shelter of the bush they opened fire again, and Howard's escape from injury was something marvelous, the bullets flying all around him. He gallantly maintained his position, and the rebels, unable to stand the terrible fire, returned to a pit constructed in the ravine running from the river.

At 2 p. m. the rebel fire gradually ceased; the troops, however, still kept up a scattered fire all along the line, gradually slackening to a stop, when only a few dropping shots were heard. At 6:30 the rebels opened fire again from a bluff near the ravine, but were shelled out. Winnipeg battery resumed and shelled houses in the distance where a large number of rebels had gathered. One shell crashed through the first house, and the rebels rushed out. Another shell blew the roof off the second house and the rebels retreated to Riel's camp at Batouche.

William Bruce, lately a prisoner of Riel, who escaped, says Riel's force is a little over 400, half of whom are on the other side of the river. He also says that when ammunition was served to the rebels only one keg of powder remained. Bullets are also scarce. Women and children have been sent to the other side of the river.

The rebel loss is not known, but is supposed to be severe. The following is a list of the killed and wounded among the troops: Gunner Phillips, shot through the stomach while in the ravine; died while being carried in. Thomas J. Stout, run over by a carriage; not fatal. Chappatier, shot through both legs; one fractured. Gunners Fairbanks and Tooby, also shot in the legs. Grenadier Capt. Mason, No. 2 company, slight wound in thigh; R. Cook, slightly wounded in the leg, and Curley Allen, wounded in the shoulder.

It is supposed the rebel stronghold at Batouche was stormed Sunday, but no particulars are in yet.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 11.—In an interview with an Associated Press reporter, John McLane, of Bismarck, just returned from Winnipeg, where he has been delivering horses, teams, and supplies to the Canadian government, said the government has advised that men from Chicago, New York, and Boston are with Riel, and that a master mind, not Riel's, is directing the movements of the half-breeds. Old-timers regard Middleton's success at Batouche as absolutely necessary to prevent the Indians uprising, which would be disastrous. All supplies are short, and about all must come from this side of the line. North Dakota is now being drained of horses, hay, oats, etc. It is believed that about 1,500 half-breeds are in the field, that 6,000 Indians are ready to take the war-path, and there are but 4,000 troops to oppose them.

A Week's Troubles in Business.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., number for the United States, 235, as compared with a total of 208 last week and 240 the week previous to the last. The failures in the southern and pacific states are unusually heavy. In the other sections, particularly in the western states, they are below the average.

Preliminary Murderer Caught.

ST. LOUIS, May 6.—Chief of Police Harrigan has received the following cablegram, announcing the arrest of the murderer of Preller:

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, May 6.—Maxwell arrested yesterday, and will give trouble. He has counsel. Send officer with requisition and sworn deposition on first steamer. Advise the state department and cable when the officer sails.

Consul at Auckland.

The Locusts Coming.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 12.—Professor C. V. Riley, the entomologist of the agricultural department, says that the United States is soon to be visited by two immense swarms of locusts—the thirteen and seventeen year species—and that they will remain until July. He predicts that they will do but little damage.

Lowell Delivers an Oration on Coleridge. LONDON, May 7.—The bust of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, the poet, was unveiled Thursday in the poets' corner of Westminster Abbey with imposing ceremonies. United States Minister Lowell delivered a brilliant oration eulogistic of the life and works of the distinguished man.

NOT QUITE SO LOVELY.

A Hitch in the Amicable Negotiations of England and Russia.

LONDON, May 9.—Political circles are again agitated over the conduct of Russia with regard to the Russia-Afghan frontier question. It is now asserted in official circles that the St. Petersburg officials have peremptorily refused to enter into any agreement or treaty with England containing a pledge that Russia will refrain from making a forward movement on Herat. This arrogant attitude of Russia is all the absorbing topic, and has in a great measure revived the war talk. The Tories are indignant at what they term another slap in the face by Russia. The belief is general that Russia is playing more of her treacherous tricks, and that the czar is fully intent on having Herat at any cost.

The Russian ambassador imparted to Earl Granville Friday the substance of the note from the Giers with reference to the basis of Afghan frontier negotiations. It is reported that it is not satisfactory to the British government. A conference on the frontier question will be held Tuesday. The differences between the two governments as to the terms upon which the question shall be referred to an arbitrator are becoming greater. The statement of The Official Messenger, of St. Petersburg, that the dispute will be submitted to arbitration only in case of necessity is semi-officially declared inaccurate. Granville, in his discussions with De Staal, holds the Russian acceptance of arbitration must be absolute. The Conservatives will muster their full strength in the commons, Monday, to support Northcott's motion of censure in the form of a demand that the house be informed to what use the late credit is to be put.

A special dispatch from Calcutta to The Times says: "The news of the peace arrangements has created dismay here. Peace so obtained is considered dangerous and humiliating. The reports which reach here from the northwest provinces and from Afghanistan agree in representing the vacillation of the ministry as ruinous to British prestige."

The report of Earl Dufferin's resignation is positively denied.

IS WRIGHT'S STORY WRONG?

The Man Arrested for the "Monon" Robbery Says He's Not the Culprit.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 12.—William Wright was arrested in Terre Haute Sunday and brought here Monday charged with the train robbery committed near here two weeks ago. He says: "It looks kind of hard to be here under these circumstances, but I feel confident that Weber will set me free. I want to see him as quick as possible. I left Tuesday, the day before the crime was committed for Terre Haute to go to my uncle's for work. He had none, and I then bought some fiction, and went out on a tramp to sell for a living. The night the crime was committed I was fourteen miles west of Terre Haute as I can prove by a man whom I stayed all night with. I forgot his name. I did not hear of his hunting me until Thursday last. On Sunday I went and gave myself up. I told the police I wanted the matter straightened up at once. I had word from my wife several times, and wrote her a letter the day the crime was committed. I am sure they will set me at liberty."

The story is well connected, but does not agree with that of his wife or father. The general impression is that he bought a ticket to prove that he was out of the neighborhood, and that the letter from Terre Haute was mailed by an accomplice for it is not in his hand writing. His manner is careless and he wants to talk to everybody.

The doctors refused to let Weber come up Monday, but it is thought he will be here soon to say whether Wright is the man.

Gen. Grant Takes a Longer Walk.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Gen. Grant slept fully seven hours Saturday night, and when the four doctors of the staff met in consultation Sunday afternoon they found his general condition was, if anything, improved, but the cancerous spots were unchanged. Dr. Barker sails for Europe this week, and this was his last consultation before going. When about to leave he bade the general good-bye and said:

"I come back in the autumn I shall expect to find your literary work finished to your satisfaction."

"You don't expect to find me, though, do you?"

"I shall hope so, anyhow," responded Dr. Barker as he went away.

Dr. Shady said the two new cancer spots had not perceptibly increased since Wednesday. Gen. Grant added a block to his usual walk Sunday afternoon, and stated that he felt no more fatigue than usual.

A New Boom for Hennepin.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 7.—Congressman Murphy, of Iowa, is in the city looking after the federal appointments, and says William De-mond will be appointed marshal for the northern district. He also declared his belief that the prohibitory law would give the Democrats a good chance of carrying Iowa next election.

"Are you still at work upon the Hennepin canal project?"

"Oh, yes. We shall push it with greater vim than ever in the next congress. The friends of the measure are going to have the name of the river and harbor commission changed to committee on rivers, harbors and canals, when they cannot knock us out on the question of jurisdiction. I am very confident that we shall pull the measure through next time."

Commodore Garrison's Will.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The will of the late Commodore Cornelius K. Garrison has been filed in the surrogate's office. To his widow, Letitia W. Garrison, are left the home and furniture, horses and carriages, and $500,000 in lieu of dower. His daughter, Catharine M. Van Alken, and Mrs. Mary A. Garrison, widow of the commodore's deceased son, each get $200,000, and each of their three children $100,000. The remainder of the estate, after five years, is to be divided among his grand children.

Couch's Men Change Their Base.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., May 6.—The Oklahoma colonists, under Capt. Couch, have been encamped here since Jan. 23, struck their tent Tuesday, and are now en route to Caldwell, thirty-four miles west of here. They are looking for better supplies of wood and hay, while awaiting the decision of the government as to opening their country. There are barely fifty tents now left in the camp, but the colony has not disbanded.

More Land for Settlement.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 7.—Secretary Lamar has submitted for the approval of the president, a grant of lands in Santee, Sioux reservation in Nebraska. Under the order of President Arthur of Feb. 9 last, which goes into effect on the 15th inst., 42,000 acres of land will be restored to the public domain.

Training for Off on a Cruise.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 11.—United States training ships Saratoga and Portsmouth, sailed for their annual cruise Monday morning for the Azores.

ANGUS CANNON'S PLEA

THE MORMON PRESIDENT SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS IN JAIL.

He Declares He Has Disobeyed No Law and Has a Clear Conscience—No "Promises to Children" As to His Future Conduct.

SALT LAKE, Utah, May 11.—Angus Cannon, Milton Musser, and J. C. Watson were all sentenced Saturday for unlawful cohabitation, and each received the full extent of the law—$300 fine and six months' imprisonment. When Cannon was asked if he had anything to say, he said he was conscious of having violated no law. His conscience was serene. He said he had obeyed the Edmunds law, as he understood it; that is, while living in the same house with his wives he had cohabited with but one. He loved his children and was gratified to hear the court say the law had made all his children equal heirs. He inferred from this that in case he died intestate his children would be equal heirs before the law, and he thought, in view of this fact, it was unjust to hold a man criminal for eating with them and their mothers at table. His record before his country, his heart and his conscience, visible to God, who created him; his record and his life in contact with his people [here he turned and waved his hand to the crowd] bore him up to receive such a sentence as the court should impose. He felt pleased, also, that the court had stated that his conduct toward his respective wives, since the passage of the Edmunds law should be taken into consideration when sentences were being passed, and said that as he had been debarred from giving evidence of his intention to maintain the laws of the country and honor the institutions that are provided for under a constitution he had loved and honored, his heart was made glad in anticipation that the court would probably consider these things; hence he now submitted and bowed to the decrees of the court, trusting that he would be able to bear up under any sentence that might be inflicted, in such manner as to give evidence to his children that he had not lost his manhood. [Great applause, which the marshals had to check.]

The court again asked Cannon if he declined to make any promise in regard to the future, and he replied: "I have never been in the habit of making children promises lest I should fail."

The court then reviewed the case, and stated the object of the law to be to prevent the crime of unlawful cohabitation in polygamy. He had asked as to the future course of the convict, with a view to lightening the sentence in case he found him well disposed toward the law, but as he was not he must inflict the maximum punishment, six months in prison and $300 fine.

A. Milton Musser, being asked what he had to say, called on his attorney, Arthur Stayner, to read his statement in writing. In this statement Musser claimed that the evidence was insufficient to convict, but didn't deny the fact of living with his wives, as Cannon had. He only claimed that it hadn't been proved. He claimed that he had given his wives separate homes, but maintained the right to visit them as before. He wives and children were as dear to him as those of the judge to himself, and in mental and physical grace the peers of their sisters anywhere. He sarcastically referred to "this mighty and magnanimous republic, which your honor represents in such a dignified, distinguished, and obviously impartial manner," and pronounced the rulings of the court "cruel and oppressive, not to say subversive of good law and morals."

SALT LAKE, Utah, May 12.—A letter dated the 10th has been received from Oxford, Idaho, saying: "The greatest excitement prevails in Paris. Warrants were placed in the hands of three deputy marshals for the arrest of eight polygamists at and around Paris. A telegram announces the fact that Monday morning the polygamists were all caroled in a meeting-house at Paris under protection of an armed guard of saints. The deputy marshals were marched out of Paris by the mob, who threatened that they would kill any who attempted to serve warrants."

FATAL RESULT OF FRIGHT.

Another Death at Lemont—The Coroner's Verdict.

LEMONT, Ills., May 9.—It is reported that Ellickson, a Swede, who was badly frightened at the skirmish Monday, died of nervous prostration at Hastings Friday. The coroner's jury censured the sheriff of Cook county for his haste in sending troops without more warning, and without asking the aid of the authorities, to disperse all crowds of people in the street; that officers in command of the soldiers should have shown more discretion before firing on the crowds of people gathered, and especially the soldiers before clubbing with swords and bayonets, citizens on and before their own doorsteps. Everything remains quiet and peaceable, but the strikers still refuse to go to work on the terms offered.

The steam shovel known as Boyers & Cornean's, now owned by the Singer & Talcott, valued at $15,000 or $20,000, was burned Friday night. The fire is supposed to be the work of the striking quarrymen.

Preparing to Greet Barthold's Statue.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Preparations are being made at the navy yards to send the United States steamer Dispatch and Minnesota down the narrows to meet and salute the French transport Isere, which bears the Barthold statue. It is not yet known when the Isere will make her appearance, but the two men-of-war have been ordered to be in readiness. Both ships will be decorated with the flags of the French and American navies, and while the salutes are being fired from them and the forts along the narrows, the American crews will man their yards and cheer the crew of the Isere while she sails up the bay.

A Young Murderer's Exploit.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Two weeks ago Ed Bernardi, a youth of 13, told his sweetheart, Cecilia Tracy, a miss of 12, with whom he had a romance, that he would kill her. He began saving up money to buy a revolver, and Friday, meeting Miss Tracy in the Foster school-yard, fired at her. The ball grazed her abdomen. He then shot himself three times, and it is expected he cannot live.

Bismarck's Tribute to England.

BERLIN, May 11.—In the reichstag Saturday Prince Bismarck while opposing in debate the bill forbidding Sunday labor answered a deputy who asserted that English and American manufacturers were far in advance of those of Germany by saying that England was centuries in advance of Germany in civilization.

Soudan Rebels Defeated.

EGYPT, May 7.—A detachment of British troops have surprised and defeated the rebels near Dhakdul, killing 150 men and capturing 2,000 cattle. One officer of the attacking party was killed and three men were wounded.

A DRUGGIST FOR 25 YEARS.

Auburn, Ia., Sept. 8, 1884.—I am an old pharmacist, and have had to do largely with blood diseases for over twenty-five years. I have dealt in all kinds of blood purifiers, and do not hesitate to say that Swift's Specific is the best and has given more general satisfaction than any other I have ever handled. Swift's Specific is an excellent tonic, and as an antidote for malaria has no superior. Many ladies are using it as a tonic for general debility, and find it the most satisfactory one ever used. I have been dealing in Swift's Specific for five years or more and am satisfied that I do not place a high estimate upon its merits.

G. W. Dixon.

PRESCRIBED BY PHYSICIANS. I have prescribed Swift's Specific in many cases of blood poison and as a general tonic, and it has made cures after all other remedies had failed.

The taint of scrofula in the blood. With many it is hereditary, but it may also be acquired from want of proper food or any cause which brings about weakness of the body and impurity of the blood. The disease is characterized by running sores, abscesses, swellings, enlarged joints, sore eyes, etc. No medicine has been so successful in curing scrofula as Hood's Sarsaparilla. The most terrible running sores gradually disappear under the purifying and strengthening influences of this great medicine. If you are a sufferer from scrofula and desire more evidence as to the wonderful success of Hood's Sarsaparilla, send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for a book containing many remarkable cures.

PAUL BOYNTON'S JOKE

On Her Majesty's Ship Garnet—A Bogus Torpedo and a Big Laugh.

New York, May 8.—Wednesday night Paul Boynton, the swimmer, went out to the British man-of-war, Garnet, and fastened a "Quaker" torpedo under her bows, and then swam away. He was picked up very soon by the ship's steam launch, but upon explaining his joke allowed to go ashore. This exploit was the talk of the town Thursday. Everybody was laughing at the commander of the British war vessel, The Garnet, which had been lying close to the Staten Island shore off Tompkinsville, suddenly changed her base early Thursday morning and anchored off the Long Island shore, nearly three-quarters of a mile from her original station. Fishermen who got up early and shot out into the bay in row-boats saw the tars yanking in an enormous net that was stretched out around the prow just above the water's edge, like a giant triangular fan. It was the regulation man-of-war net employed as protection against torpedoes. The tars of the man-of-war ran it out at nightfall, and kept it in position all night long. Capt. Hand came ashore after it was hauled in, and visited Consul General Booker. The consul general said afterward that Capt. Hand had mentioned that precautions had been taken to prevent a repetition of the Boynton exploit.

"I wouldn't like to try that trick over again myself," the consul general said significantly, "I'm afraid it would be dangerous."

"I will do nothing in reference to the Boynton joke." It is accepted as a joke by Capt. Hand, and no further attention will be paid to it. It is said that the Russian imperial agents here have exchanged cipher cables with the Boynton business with the St. Petersburg government. Full reports of the affair were called to the London papers.

NOTABLE GATHERING

Of Clergymen and Laymen in the American Congress of Churches.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 12.—The first session in this city of the American congress of churches was successfully opened Monday night. The large hall was filled mostly by clergymen from all parts of the country. Governor Harrison called the assembly to order at 7:30 o'clock and was elected president. Among the forty-seven vice presidents elected were: Bishop Edward G. Andrews, D. D., Washington, D. C.; Hon. Richard M. Bishop, Cincinnati; President James H. Carville, L. L. D., Spartanburg, S. C.; President Thomas Chase, L. L. D., Haverford college, Pa.; Hon. H. L. M. Curry, Richmond, Va.; Hon. Henry L. Dawes, Pittsfield, Mass.; Hon. Charles D. Drake, Washington, D. C.; Hon. George F. Edmunds, Burlington, Vt.; D. P. Ellis, Cleveland, Ohio; Bishop Cyrus D. Fos, Minneapolis, Minn.; Rev. John Fulton, St. Louis; Rev. Washington Gladden, Columbus, Ohio; Rt. Rev. H. S. Harris, Detroit; Hon. J. R. Hawley, Hartford; Rt. Rev. M. A. Dewolf Howe, Reading, Pa.; Rev. Richard Newton, Philadelphia, Pa.; Thomas W. Phillips, New Castle, Pa.; President Noah Porter, New Haven, Conn.; Rev. M. Rhodes, St. Louis, Mo.; W. A. Talcott, Rockford, Ill.; Rt. Rev. D. S. Tuttle, Salt Lake City; Hon. William H. Upson, Akron, Ohio; and H. W. Warren, Denver, Colo.

The discussion assigned for the opening session was: "The relations of civilized Christianity to aggressive Christianity." The speakers on this were Rev. Howard Crosby, N. Y.; Rev. Dr. Hopkins, of Williamsport, Pa.; and Rev. Power, of Washington, D. C.

FRELINGHUYSEN'S ILLNESS.

The Ex-Secretary Said To Be Suffering from the Effects of Poison.

NEW YORK, May 11.—A World Washington special says: A reason assigned for ex-Secretary Frelinghuysen's illness is the following, as given by a member of his immediate family and some of his closest friends: Frelinghuysen had been in the habit of taking a bottle of Saratoga water every day. One morning last winter, just a year in the season, after drinking a tumbler of it as usual, he was taken suddenly and violently ill. He telephoned to his physician, who said the symptoms and sufferings were the results of poison. The stomach-pump was vigorously and effectually used. The bottle from which the Saratoga water was poured was then examined and was found to contain a white sediment, which proved to be arsenic. Mr. Frelinghuysen was confined to his bed for several days afterward, and has asserted frequently that he never felt well since the occurrence. The bottle, it seemed, had formerly contained a solution of arsenic and was filled through carelessness with Saratoga water before it had been cleaned.

Illinois Legislature Home Again.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 11.—At 10:30 o'clock Saturday night the legislative tourists arrived in the city on their return from New Orleans. Six coaches bore the crowd, and Andy Welch, the first man who appeared in the corridor of the Leland hotel, was greeted with applause and congratulations. Mr. Haines came in next, looking jaded and disgruntled, and registering a word to any one who went his way to his room. One car containing two or three senators and a half dozen representatives remained a day longer in New Orleans.

Inviting Plans for a New Navy.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 8.—The secretary of the navy has invited plans, designs, and models for the proposed new cruisers and gunboats.

The naval advisory board will not be concerned in any way with the construction of these vessels. The vessels will consist of two cruisers of not less than 3,000 nor more than 5,000 tons displacement, each, exclusive of armament, $1,100,000, costing, exclusive of armament, of about 1,600 tons displacement, costing not more than $250,000, and one light gunboat of about 800 tons, costing $275,000.

Condition of Crops in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 8.—The state board of agriculture report the condition of crops, etc., in Ohio to be as follows: Wheat area, 93 per cent; condition, 59 per cent; probable total bushels, with good weather till harvest, 22,571,530, as compared with a five-year average of 41,065,344 bushels. Rye, condition, 65, barley, 40. From present indications the wheat crop will be the most disastrous failure for ten years.

Knives, Pistols and Japanese Dirks in Rossa's Office—The Trial of Short.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The defense in the case of Dick Short began Wednesday. Walker J. Elliot, a paper-hanger, and F. Kearney, a saloon-keeper, both of this city, testified that Phelan had made threats to kill Rossa, both before and at the meeting in Rossa's office. Other witnesses testified that Phelan was drunk and quarrelsome on the day of the assault, and that he was threatening Short when the latter began to struggle with him. Kearney was recalled and denied having told Phelan on the way to Rossa's office that Rossa was friendly to him. He admitted having corresponded with Phelan on Irish matters under assumed names.

George S. Smith, lately lieutenant of the capital police at Washington, contradicted Phelan's statement that Phelan caused his removal. He was removed for political reasons and not till two years after Phelan was removed.

Nat Joyce, looking pale, took the stand and testified that knives, pistols and Japanese dirks were kept lying around Rossa's office. He identified the knife with which Short stabbed Phelan as one that was lying on the table in the office before the quarrel.

Short then took the stand and in a long, rambling and confused statement said that Phelan first attacked him, and he did the stabbing in self-defense. This closed the testimony in the case, and Charles F. Brooks summed up for Short. He was followed by Assistant District Attorney Fellows for the prosecution. After a brief and impartial charge by Judge Vanbrunt the jury retired at 7:30 P. M. to consider their verdict.

The jury, after some deliberation, brought in a verdict of acquittal.

WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH.

Two of the Aspinwall Incendiaries Promptly strung Up.

ASPINWALL, May 7.—The two rebel leaders, Portazal and Cocobolo, who advised and assisted Preston in the burning of this city, and who have been held prisoners on the Galena, were delivered Wednesday morning to Gen. Reyes, commander-in-chief of the Colombian forces, by Capt. Kane. A court-martial was then held by Gen. Reyes, and the rebel conspirators were sentenced to death.

No delay occurred in executing the sentence of the court. In the afternoon the condemned men were taken to the middle of the ruins which they were instrumental in making and hanged in the presence of thousands of persons who had assembled to witness the enforcement of the law. The place selected for the hanging by Gen. Reyes was the exact spot where the leaders of the rebels had started the fire on March 31 which laid this city in ashes and destroyed nearly every building in it. Gen. Reyes' prompt and vigorous action has already had its effect. The hanging of Portazal and Cocobolo has struck terror to the heart of every rebel on the isthmus.

Death of a Living Skeleton.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 11.—Abraham Crites, of Crites' Mountain, Braxton county, known throughout the state as the Braxton skeleton, died Sunday. He was afflicted with a disease that baffled all medical skill, and gradually wasted away until nothing was left but skin and bones. His thigh could easily be spanned, and his backbone could be distinctly felt by passing one's hand over the opposite of his body. He was a little over the average height, and weighed forty pounds at the time of his death.

Leeper Concludes to Contest.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 11.—Leeper, the defeated candidate for the legislature from the Thirty-fourth district of this state, has reconsidered his determination not to contest Weaver's election, and will fight it on several grounds, one being that no registration of voters was had from other elections.

THURSDAY, : : MAY 14, 1885

THERE is a threatening lack of stability and completeness about the Anglo-Russian peace.

RIEL, the Canadian Rebel, is making things warm in the Saskatchewan despite the high latitude.

ENGLAND has a fighting army of 530,000 men in India, which can be drawn upon in an emergency.

GEN. GRANT continues to improve steadily, and the medical men have now begun to defend themselves against the strictures of the press.

The administration begins to feel its oats sufficiently to declare open war on the civil service rules. Postmaster Vilas' circular is but a sample.

The lumber districts of Chicago were visited by a destructive conflagration last Friday, which consumed some $700,000 worth of lumber and shingles. The insurance was large.

HON. GEO. V. N. LATHROP, of Michigan, was named by the President last Friday as minister to Russia. Hon. Boyd Winchester, of Kentucky, to Switzerland, and Hon. John E. W. Thompson, of New York, to Hayti.

No better criterion for the measurement of the gulf of immensity between the Republican and Democratic parties can be imagined than the contrast of Lincoln and Cleveland at Gettysburg. What a fall, my countrymen!

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is rapidly wiping away all respect there may have been in the country for his professions of civil service reform. The Chicago postoffice change took away a great block of it at one fell swoop.

The English man-of-war, the Garret, in New York harbor, has been reinforced by the Canada, a vessel of like proportions and import, and the Russian vessel, the Strelok, lying in the same waters, would be at a decided disadvantage should war be suddenly declared.

It is rumored in yesterday's dispatches that Bayless Hanna will be sent to the Argentine Republic instead of Persia, the change being made at the instance of his friends on the grounds that the Persian climate would be detrimental to the health of his family.

ENGLAND's prestige as a great and war-like power is suffering not a little among the crowned heads and courts of Europe on account of her apparent back down on the Afghan dispute. Gladstone is freely ridiculed on all sides, but the safest opinion for Americans to bank on is that the Prime Minister understands his business thoroughly.

The Putnam Democrat reads its party an expressive and impressive lesson this week on the iniquity of deserting party organization and combining with mugwumpian forces for politician gain. In the light of the late disastrous combination the lesson is one that our Democratic friends will do well to heed. There is political manliness in maintaining party organization however isolated and hopeless may be that party's prospects.

The Democratic administration has been counting the cash in the national treasury to find out how many millions "the rascals" have stolen. The count has been finished and found even to a cent. This exactness after twenty four years of Republican administration, with billions handled annually, is a record and an endorsement that the people cannot fail to appreciate. When the Democratic party left the treasury to other hands before, they left it wrecked and empty. Will they do as well again?

The general and the ex-Chairman allege that the Stalwarts have gone to their final reward; that their voices are hushed within the confines of the tomb. * * * The General and the ex-Chairman proclaim from the house tops that they rule the city, and have no use for Stalwarts in office or at the polls.—Star-Press.

We feel that we can state authoritatively for the "General" and "ex-Chairman" that the foregoing and other like squibs—to which the capacity of the Star-Press man is limited—are simple, plain, unadorned false-hoods. There is a pretty little proverb somewhere to the effect that a man who resides in a domicile constructed of stuff so fragile as glass should not be out in the road shying stones at his neighbor. We suggest to the "organ" man that he hunt it up and profit by a perusal of its precepts.

The re-election of Jos. Crow, jr., as city attorney for a third term, by the Common Council Monday night, is a compliment to that gentleman's worth and efficiency as an official. Mr. Crow merits the honor.

Death of a Prominent Man.

The subject of the following sketch, which we take from the St. Louis Globe Democrat of Monday, was a cousin to Mr. Jos. H. Crow and Mr. E. H. Crow of this place, and was well known to many of our older citizens:

Wayman Crow died at his residence, 603 Garrison avenue, at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. His death, though not unexpected, is nevertheless a great affliction, and as such is felt not only by his immediate relatives, but by a large circle of friends, and by the friends of numerous educational institutions, whose success is mainly due to his generosity. The immediate cause of his death was paralysis, the first serious effects of which were felt some three or four weeks ago. Since that time he has been gradually sinking though at times slight hopes were entertained of his recovery. His death was absolutely painless, and he sank into his long sleep as peacefully as a child, surrounded by his family and immediate personal friends and business associates.

Wayman Crow was born in Hartford Ky. March 8, 1828, and when he was six years old his family moved to Hopkinsville, Christian county, Ky. At the age of seven he began to attend the district school and there acquired the rudiments of education. In 1839 his father removed to a farm about six miles from Hopkinsville and the boy spent one year there, attending school in the winter, and working on the farm in the summer. In 1840, when he was twelve years old, he was apprenticed to a country store-keeper for five years and there gained his first knowledge of the management of a business, a knowledge which he absorbed thoroughly and which afterward made him one of the foremost business men of this city. In about one and one half years his master retired from business and young Crow was transferred by agreement to a firm which had previously been engaged in a wholesale business and necessarily unfamiliar with the ins and outs of the retail trade. Wayman Crow's thorough knowledge of his business stood him in good stead, and he assumed chief control of the firm's business, although he was only 15 years of age. At the expiration of his apprenticeship he was engaged permanently by a firm on a salary, and soon after they established a branch store at Cadiz, Ky., giving him entire control of it with a share of the profits. Their confidence in his integrity and faithfulness was such that, though not twenty miles away, his employers delayed six months before paying him a visit. In 1855 his employers sold out their interest to him on credit, though he was still a minor, and the notes were paid before they reached maturity. In 1855 he sold out his business, finding himself then the possessor of $21,000. On November 5, 1856, Mr. Crow was married to Miss Isabella B. Conn, of Union county, Ky., and in 1857 one of the largest and best known wholesale dry goods houses in the West, Mr. Crow's business enterprise and sagacity are too well known to need mention, and through them his firm safely passed through all the trying commercial crises since 1855. In 1840 he was elected president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and held the position for ten years. During that same year he was elected to the State Senate, and again in 1850 on the Whig ticket. It was during his last term that the present railroad policy of the State was inaugurated, and Mr. Crow was prominent as one of the organizers of the Hannibal & St. Joseph & Missouri Pacific Railroads. It was also during this period that he also obtained the charter for the St. Louis Asylum for the Blind and for the Merchants Library. He was prominently identified with various business enterprises, all of which were uniformly successful, and he was the principal benefactor of the cause of education. In the winter of 1858, without suggestion from any one, he drafted, introduced and secured the passage of the Washington University charter. In 1875 he gave $25,000 to the university for the endowment of the chair of physics, and altogether his endowments to this institution amount to more than $200,000. In 1878 his only son died in England and, with the consent and advice of the family, he decided to erect a memorial art museum, and the splendid building on the corner of Locust and Nineteenth streets was the result. This was dedicated on May 10, 1881, and conveyed by deed to the Washington University on condition that a permanent fund of $25,000 be raised, the interest of which was to be used in the purchase of works of art. Mr. Crow's donations to various enterprises were large, and amounted to over $300,000, and though he was by no means a millionaire he dispensed his wealth in various directions with a lavish hand. His often said that he desired to be his own executor, and did not wish to leave to others the execution of his wishes after his death. He desired to accomplish certain things and believed that the surest way to have them done was to attend to it personally.

Brattin, the jeweler, has on exhibition a regular Edison electric light scarf-pin.

Several of our physicians have been at Indianapolis this week attending the State Medical Society.

Frank Gilmore and wife returned yesterday from Harrison, O., where the latter had been visiting for some time.

Will C. Paine, the "rustling" young business end of the Brazil Democrat, came over Monday to attend the Kahn wedding.

Miss Mary Lane, of Clinton township, has returned from Holton, Kansas, where she has been for the past two years.

Our G. A. R. have received their prize—a fine set of officers' sidearms—for the second best collection in the State on the soldiers' monument fund.

Miss Nellie Bridges gave a progressive euchre party last evening in honor of her guests, Miss Ida Manley and Miss Clara Orchard, of Bloomington.

Mr. Stone, the feed merchant, has leased the old dwelling just south of the postoffice building, belonging to Mrs. Thurman, and repaired the same for occupation by his store.

The family of J. G. Coats, agent of I. & St. L. road, have removed here from Terre Haute, and are living at the corner of Washington and Bloomington. Mrs. Coats' health is improving.

Through the "floance" of Congressman Matson, Flint Tenant, lately the editor of the Cloverdale Herald, has been appointed to a position in the Government printing office at Washington.

Dr. J. H. Harrison was taken sick at Indianapolis Monday while there on business connected with the State Board of Charities, of which he is president. Mrs. Harrison has gone there to join him.

James Russell, a workman at the rolling mill, was before the Mayor Saturday, charged with assaulting, knocking down and beating his wife. He was fined $20 and costs, and will lay it out in jail.

The much talked of suit by the heirs of Henry J. Mace against the Vandalia railroad, which was to have come up at this term of court, was compromised Saturday, the road giving $15,000. The amount sued for was $10,000.

A four nights May festival on skates is in progress at the opera house rink this week. Two prize watches will be awarded at the end of the festival—a gold watch to the most popular lady, and a silver watch to the best gentleman guesser.

Indianapolis News: Justin Study, superintendent of the Richmond public schools, in attempting to kick a football which came near him, while his scholars were at play, lost his balance and received a heavy fall upon a brick pavement. It is thought no bones are broken, but his injuries will lay him up for several days.

There was a slight fall of snow here Friday night, which makes a fall of snow for every month in this year up to date. Is it possible we are to have a repetition of the year 1816? In that year, according to reliable traditions, there was snow every month in the year in this latitude. It looks as though 1885 would beat the record.

Dr. Knight received news Thursday morning, of the death of his father, Wesley L. Knight, at 9 o'clock that morning, at his home in Albia, Iowa. His age was eighty-two years, two months and twenty-seven days. He lived in this county until 1849.

City Clerk presented certificates of election of J. C. Ratliff, as councilman from first ward; H. C. Darnall, second; and C. W. Callender, third, after which these gentlemen were sworn in.

The mayor then announced the following

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Finance—Nelson, Ratliff, Callender.
Claims—Bayne, Nelson, Burk.
Streets—Callender, Nelson, Ratliff.
Fire Department—Darnall, Bayne, Burk.

Light—Ratliff, Darnall, Callender.
Printing—Callender, Bayne, Darnall.

Judiciary—Burk, Nelson, Bayne.
Fees. and Salaries—Darnall, Bayne, Callender.

Drs. Martin and Earp, of DePauw University, appealed for modification of ordinance so that they be permitted to build barb wire fence around college grounds. Referred to street committee.

The council then proceeded to the election of officers. For city attorney, Jos. Crow, Jr. received five votes, Mr. Ratliff voting for J. Myers; For chief fire engineer, Fred Weik, five votes, Jacob Huffman, one; William Daggy received a unanimous vote for city civil engineer. For street commissioner, John Murphy received four votes, G. Phipps one, and T. Nelson, one.

The following police board was elected: First ward, Bayne; second, Darnall; third, Callender.

A petition signed by property holders on alley in rear of west side of square was presented, remonstrating against the improvement recently ordered upon the alley, whereupon the order was rescinded by council.

Notwithstanding a somewhat prevalent dullness in trade about the square, Brattin seems to be doing an unusually large business. He has received a lot of unique and handsome clocks this week, besides his electric light scarf pin and giant watch. Go in and see them. The scarf pin is the finest thing of the kind ever brought to the city.

Considerable excitement was raised on our streets Sunday evening by the presence in our city of the supposed Bloomington outlaw "Bud" Wright, for whom the police had been searching for a week. He was arrested in Terre Haute, brought to this city and kept in our $40,000 jail until the midnight train south on the New Albany road. He seemed to be in no way concerned about his arrest, but was confident he would be acquitted.

Dropped Dead.

Frank Birch, a saloon keeper at Lena fell dead at 1 o'clock p. m. yesterday of apoplexy. He was complaining of not feeling well in the morning, and after dinner walked down to Wm. White's saw mill shed where some hands were at work, and about one o'clock he started back towards home when he fell dead, not moving hand or foot after falling. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn their loss.

THE EXPRESS CAR ROBBERY.

Wm. A. Wright Placed in Jail at $3,000 Bail.

Special to Indianapolis Journal.

Bloomington, May 11.—This has been another day of excitement in Bloomington, caused by the arrest of William A. Wright and his arrival here this morning, charged with committing the terrible express robbery of the night of the 29th of April. Marshal Smith arrived from Terre Haute with Wright on the 3 o'clock morning train, and at once placed him in jail. As soon as his whereabouts became known the excitement began to grow, and the topic has been one of speculation since. At 3 o'clock this afternoon Wright was brought before Mayor Dods for hearing, the room being jammed by excited people. Two leading law firms in the city were retained by relatives to defend Wright. Bail was requested, when the mayor stated that as both men were yet alive, this would not be refused, but he believed the circumstances such that the highest amount allowable should be fixed, and therefore made it $3,000. This sum Wright was unable to give, and was sent back to jail to await his preliminary trial, which was set for Friday at 1:30 o'clock, when it is expected Webber, the wounded baggage master, will be able to be present to testify.

As soon as Wright had been committed to jail your correspondent called and was admitted. He found him with his feet propped against the wall of his cell, anxious to talk, and he spun out a long story that was well studied, whether he is guilty or not. He said: "I went to Terre Haute and gave myself up, because I heard they were after me. I went to Terre Haute the Tuesday before crime was committed. I bought a ticket at Clear Creek and went by the Junction line, on noon train, arriving at Terre Haute about 3 o'clock. I stayed with J. Jason, an uncle. Tuesday night Jason lives two and a half miles south. I was in the city on Wednesday at 10 o'clock; stayed there till 12. I wrote a letter to my wife, and at noon started out to sell notions. I was out fourteen miles west in the country by night, and spent the night with a farmer. I did not hear of the robbery till Sunday. I peddled notions till Wednesday of last week. I told no one my name. I planted corn for Jason, my uncle, till Sunday, when he told me that I had better go to the city and straighten up the suspicion about the express robbery, so here I am."

The fact that Wright left home without telling why he was going, and that he is a man bearing a hard character, makes his story suspicious. It is thought that he desired to mystify the officers, and has endeavored to arrange an alibi. The theory is that the letter written from Terre Haute on Wednesday is from an accomplice, and that the ticket was bought at Clear Creek to create the impression that he went to Terre Haute, when, in fact, he only went a short distance. The story that he traveled fourteen miles in a half day stopping and peddling at each house, does not bear investigation. One thing in his favor is that he is a much smaller man than the one described by Webber, though his mustache and general appearance are as told.

There is strong feeling, which is only held in check by the fact that Webber says he can identify the man, and will be here on Friday to do so. It is evident that the railroad men believe him guilty. The baggage-master and express messenger have seen a photograph of Wright, and say he is certainly the man who came in the car on the Saturday night previous to the robbery.

His Maiden Editorial.

A western druggist by a combination of circumstances came into the possession of a newspaper, and here is his first attempt at editorial writing:

"As we were coming from our breakfast to our office about 9 o'clock on yesterday morning a horse belonging to Mr. John Hogan an esteemed townsman with a blaze on his forehead a white tail attached to a furniture car in which there was a piano that had been rented by a well known Prairie avenue belle with rosewood case became frightened and rushed madly down the street where there were many people scattering alarm and destruction broadcast. On the corner of State street and Indiana a child of Michael Boliver Esqr our esteemed fellow townsman 3 years old was playing in the crowded thoroughfare. Young, beautiful and innocent, this unhappy child was called by all who knew him Patsy, although his name is Patrick, was overtaken by the bitter pill of adversity in the midst of his childish play the pale hand of death stalked in and bade him go with him to that bourne from which no traveler returns.

"The child did not see the approaching horse, but we cried, 'Will no one save him from the iron heel of the pale hand of death?' Alas! it was too late, for ere we could interpose the horse was upon the unfortunate babe and before he could evade the cruel fate which strode after him on swift but noiseless wings he fell to the earth and was picked up an unconscious corpse from which condition it has been impossible to revive him up to the hour of going to press. We extend to the family our deepest sympathy and are informed upon reliable authority that no damage was done to the piano. Truly in the midst of life we are in death and let us all be more careful about letting our children play in the street where danger lurks and they are so liable to die without medical assistance."

Mr. Gladstone's Speech.

G. W. Smalley in N. Y. Tribune.

That speech, nevertheless, was certainly designed to prepare the public mind for arbitration. Mr. Gladstone's singularly judicial tone contrasted sharply with his previous references to the Penjdeh incident, but both here and abroad opinions agreed that he meant merely to avoid irritating language and to leave the responsibility for breaking peace wholly with Russia.

Few speeches delivered in our time have echoed through Europe as has this speech of Mr. Gladstone. None have been more generally applauded in England and on the Continent for dignity, for splendor, for elevation of sentiment and for honorable regard for peace and morality and the highest English and European interests.

Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is true of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthening qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE RABBI'S PRESENT.

(Cornhill Magazine.)

A rabbi once, by all admiring,
Received of high esteem the sign,
From those his goodness had inspired,
A present of a cask of wine.
But, lo! when soon he came to draw,
A miracle, in mode as rapid
But quite unlike what China saw
Had turned his wine to water rapid.
The rabbi never knew the cause,
For miracles are things of my story,
Tho' some, like this, have had their laws
Explained from fact, or private history.
His friend, whom love did apply teach,
Willed him to share the miracle's task,
So planned to bring a bottle each,
And pour their wine in one great cask.
Now one by chance thought, "None will know,
And with the wine of all my brothers
One pint of water will I mix."
And so by chance thought all the other!

STREET PEDDLERS OF MEXICO.

Catching the Fancies of the Fair Sex—Sellers of Notions Unnumbered.
—Sandy Belsham Ward.

Among the established institutions of Mexico are the itinerant merchants, who continually perambulate the streets, for if the mountain can't come to Mahomet, it naturally follows that Mahomet goes to the mountain. Besides his little tray of goods and the ribbons, laces, scarfs, and embroideries hung over his arms and shoulders, the peddler carries a camp table, and deposits his tray thereon while conducting business between the fairs of the windows, for, being a "horrid man," of course he must not go inside.

Apparently the female heart is the same the wide world over, and the delight which these dark-eyed women take in purchasing all manner of trumpery, from silk dresses to ginger-bread horses, is identical with that of their northern cousins who haunt the stores of New York. At all hours of every day, but especially Sundays, in every city and hamlet of Mexico, these perambulating comers swarm the streets, offering all imaginable commodities, from a bunch of hot tamales or sweet potatoes to hair pulls and switches. They thrust into your windows and insist upon your purchasing, not only notions unnumbered, but the goods of tailors and hardware merchants, milliners and grocers, shoes, jewelry, saddles and harness, chunks of meat, pigs, alive and dead, goats and the poultry, young kids that cry like babies, cages of birds, opals fresh from the mines, and pearls from Pacific fisheries, antiquities from ruined pyramids and buried cities, sometimes of priceless value, which they sell for a few cents because they are old—in short, everything the imagination can conceive.

The fruit peddler bears his figs, bananas, grapes, onions, peppers and potatoes all mixed together in the huge wooden bowl upon his head. The dulce (candy) vender carries his sweets to the sweet on a tray, slung around his neck with a rope of maguey; the milk seller totes his cans upon his back; the water carrier has two enormous jars, one hanging behind, the other before, both upheld by a leathern strap around his forehead; while the petroleum man carries his well-watered stock in a tin box and retails it by the gill, or wholesales it at the rate of $1 a gallon. The baker comes around twice a day, at early morn and dewy eve, with his bread, which would make excellent cannon balls, in a big basket balanced upon his head. He always carries his precious sombrero, which probably cost him a year's earnings, in the basket among the loaves, and if a thief follow he economizes his shoes in the same manner. Meanwhile the air is vocal with other cries. The cake vender shouts in soft-vowelled Castilian, "Garditas! Garditas! A ui son buenas garditas!" ("Fat little cakes! Fat little cakes!") Carbonero-o-o, howls the coal man. Tortillas de ena ada? (curd cakes) interrogates another. Mantequilla! Mantequilla! croaks the half naked creature who thrusts under your nose a pot of odoriferous grease, while the vender of poultry, sauntering along in the sun with his cane cage on his shoulders sings in sleepy monotone, "Ducks and chickens! Oh, my soul! Good ducks and chickens!"

Insects' Breathing Arrangement.

(Naturalist's Letter.)

If we take any moderately large insect, say a wasp or a hornet, be can see, even with the naked eye, that a series of small, spot-like marks run along either side of the body. These apparent spots, which are generally eighteen or twenty in number, and, in fact, the apertures through which air is admitted into the system, and are generally formed in such a manner that no extraneous matter can by any possibility find entrance.

Sometimes they are furnished with a pair of horny lips, which can be opened and closed at the will of the insect, in other cases they are densely fringed with stiff interlacing bristles, forming a filter, which allows air, and air alone, to pass. But the apparatus of whatever character it may be, is always so wonderfully perfect in its action that it has been found impossible to inject the body of a dead insect with even so subtle a medium as spirits of wine, although the subject was first immersed in the fluid and then placed beneath the receiver of an air pump.

Puppies Under Glass.

(Chicago Herald.)

It has been found that puppies brought up under different colored lights have had strikingly different character-sties developed. Red puppies were found to be particularly devoid of pugnacity. Blue did not conduce to sweetness of disposition, while green was found to be the most educational color of all. Verdant green puppies exhibited extreme liveliness, cheerfulness and playfulness, accompanied by ease and gracefulness of motion, and were invariably good-natured and kind. Green glass in place of blue panes is recommended for the nursery.

A Natural Ice-Cave.

(Alta California.)

A natural ice-cave exists thirty miles east of Fall River valley, Cal., in the Mount Shasta region. There are huge columns of ice, chambers of ice, and ice hanging from the ceiling like blades of polished steel, forming a picture of grandeur. The residents of the valley had their summer's supply of ice from the cave.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL STATIONS.

The Points Her Navy Would Have to Look After in the Event of War.
(Philadelphia Times.)

Notwithstanding all that has been said in regard to the weakness of the British navy, it is relatively more powerful than ever before, consisting as it does of modern armored battle ships, as follows: eleven of the turret type, carrying each four guns of from 43 to 80 tons; ten of the broadside type, carrying from 8 to 12 guns of from 12 to 15 tons each, and fifty-three modern unarmored ships above 1,100 tons, all armed with modern rifles; besides, there are ten heavy armored ships and twelve unarmored ships building. In the event of war the admiralty can also command the services of the auxiliary marine.

The Russian naval fleet consists of only five armored ships fit for battle at sea and thirteen modern unarmored ships. Her mercantile marine consists of but 187 steamers of 138,291 tons, and 2,155 sailing vessels of 477,072 tons. About one-fourth of the vessels are engaged in trading to foreign countries, principally Germany and England, and the remainder are coasting vessels, many of them belonging to Greeks sailing under the Russian flag. Not included in the above are about 400 steamers on the lakes and rivers of the empire, mostly on the river Volga and its affluents. None of these ships possess the speed required at the present day as privateers, which would be a strong weapon in the hands of Russia, with little shipping, against a power like Great Britain, with a vast mercantile marine, were it not that both England and Russia are parties to the declaration of Paris, made in 1855, by which privateering is abolished by consent of all European countries except Spain.

Yet, notwithstanding these facts, a war between the two powers would be a very serious matter for England, with her great mercantile marine, consisting of 5,000 steam and 8,000 sailing vessels; 2,626 steam vessels and 7,118 sailing vessels are employed in the foreign trade, by which is carried the enormous volume of trade, amounting in the aggregate to the estimated value of $8,500,000,000, about $5,000,000,000 of which goes by the sea canal. This trade is her life; it feeds her people, and these ships bring to them the interest on the $5,000,000,000 invested in foreign countries. A declaration of war would be a signal for Mahometas to escape from neutral ports for the purpose of capture and destruction. To meet this and to protect their coaling stations the British navy must make an effective police of the seas in the shape of men-of-war capable of beating in speed and fighting qualities the best that the enemy can send against her.

A glance at a map of the world in any atlas will show the important British occupations to the extent that the sun never sets on her flag. The admiralty has divided the world into nine stations, but they coal their ships at the following points:

MEDITERRANEAN—Gibraltar, Malta and Port Said.
NORTH AMERICA—St. Johns, Halifax, West Indies—Jamaica, St. Lucia, Antigua, Barbadoes, Nassau.
SOUTH AMERICA—Rio Janeiro, Rio de la Plata.
THE CAPE—Sierra Leone, Cape Coast Castle, Ascension, St. Helena, Cape of Good Hope, Cape de Verde Islands, Fernando Po, Congo, St. Louis.
INDIA—Aden, Bombay, Tricomalee, Mauritius, Zanzibar.
AUSTRALIA—Sydney, Melbourne, Wellington.
CHINA—Singapore, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Amoy.
JAPAN—Nagasaki, Yokohama.
PACIFIC—Vancouver, Tobago.

Prehistoric Dogs.

(Cassell's Natural History.)

In the Danish "kitchen-middens," or heaps of household refuse, piled up by the men of the New Stone period—a time when our Scandinavian forefathers used chipped or polished flints instead of metal for their weapons—are found bone-cuttings belonging to some species of the genus Canis. Along with these remains are some of the long bones of birds, all the other bones of the said bird being absent. Now it is known that the bird bones here found are the very ones which dogs cannot devour, while the absent ones are such as they can bolt with ease, and it has been ingeniously argued from this that the remains in question did really belong to a domestic dog, as, if the animals to which they appertained had been wolves, they would have made short work of the long bones as well as of the others.

What Franklin Fed His Guests.

(Chicago Herald.)

Mrs. Mary Ruston was one of the notable ladies in Philadelphia society a century ago. Her receipt book is now owned by Mr. Charles Pennypacker, one of her descendants. In it she recorded particulars of the elaborate dinners at which she was present. Thus it appears that on one occasion Dr. Franklin regaled his guests with clam soup, breast of veal ragout, fore-quarter of roast lamb, four small chickens, pigs' feet, a pair of roast ducks, and a roast leg of mutton, with numerous vegetables served from the side-board, and filled up the crevices with a dessert of green currant tarts, jellies, truffles, blanc-mange, cranberry tarts, English and Swiss cheeses and cheese cakes.

A Mathematical Man.

(Texas Sittings.)

He was a mathematical man, and always engaged in making intricate calculations. His marriage was to take place on Friday, but he suggested that it take place on Thursday.

"Why do you wish it changed?" was asked, suspiciously.

"Well," said he, "I have been making a calculation, and I find that my silver wedding will come off on a Saturday evening, and that would never do, as that is the evening I have to go to lodge."

A Wretched Case.

(Chicago Tribune.)

Mrs. Mulvaney (the laundress): "Indade, ma'am, an' its miserable I am. I'm but just on me feet wid the pain in me back, an' Jimmy, he's as bad off; he has as a cough on um that sounds loike an empty bar'l. Cough for the lady, Jimmy!"

THE PRACTICE OF FLESH-EATING.

What a Writer in Popular Science Monthly Has to Say.

(W. Matten Williams.)

I cannot at all agree with those of my vegetarian friends who denounce flesh-eating as a prolific source of disease, as inflaming the passions and generally demoralizing. Neither am I at all disposed to make a religion of either eating, drinking, or abstaining. There are certain albuminoids, certain carbohydrates, certain hydro-carbons and certain salts demanded for our sustenance. Excepting in fruit, these are not supplied by nature in a fit condition for our use. They must be prepared. Whether we do all the preparation in the kitchen by bringing the produce of the earth directly there, or whether, on account of our ignorance and incapacity as cooks, we pass our food through the stomach, intestines, blood-vessels, etc., of sheep and oxen, as a substitute for the first stages of scientific cookery, the result is about the same as regards the dietetic result. Flesh-feeding is a nasty practice, but I see no grounds for denouncing it as physiologically injurious.

In my youthful days I was on friendly terms with a sheep that belonged to a butcher in Jernyn street. This animal, for some reason, had been spared in its lambhood, and was reared as the butcher's pet. It was well known in St. James by following the butcher's men through the streets like a dog. I have seen this sheep steal mutton-chops and devour them raw. It preferred beef or mutton to grass. It enjoyed robust health, and was by no means ferocious. It was merely a disgusting animal, with excessively perverted appetite; a perversion that supplies very suggestive material for human meditation.

My own experiments on myself, and the multitude of other experiments that I am daily witnessing among men of all occupations who have cast aside flesh-food after many years of mixed diet, prove incontrovertibly that flesh-food is quite unnecessary; and also that men and women who emulate the aforesaid sheep to the mild extent of consuming daily about two ounces of animal tissue combined with six ounces of water, and dilute this with such weak vegetable food as the potato, are not measurably altered thereby so far as physical health is concerned.

How an Artist Secures Specimens.

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

Emerson somewhere asks: "Hast thou named all the birds without a gun?" Gibson is one of the few who can affirmatively answer this question, for the instrument by which he brings the birds as victims before his eyes is the blowgun. It is very simple. Only a glass tube about three feet long. This he has covered with black ribbon that it can be carried without observation. To casual sight it is simply a slight walking stick. But let the bird whose plumage the artist desires to study pass the range of not more than 100 feet and the black rod is raised, a little pellet made of clay and glue is taken from the pocket, the instrument is raised to his lips and the bird falls.

As many as fifteen specimens have been gathered in this manner in a single afternoon by this quaint tube which because handled by an artist may be called a blowgun, but which in common parlance in an artistic circle is nothing more nor less than an artistic pipe-blower.

Wood-Working Machinery.

(Boston Transcript.)

The manufacture of wood-working machinery has made very rapid progress of late years. Ten years ago there were comparatively few establishments devoted to its manufacture. Now they are scattered over the country and some of them cover ten to twenty acres. The capital invested ranges from $100,000 to $1,000,000 and the number of hands employed in each from 100 to 1,000.

The opening up of the country by railroads has given an impetus to wood manufactures, and thus the demand for working machinery has advanced rapidly. Planing mills by the score are springing up in the south and in the lumber regions of the west. Furniture manufacturing and agricultural works are growing in number, and the railroad shops are also helping to swell the demand for this class of machinery.

France's New Divorce Law.

(Paris Letter.)

The principal tribunals of France are overtasked, owing to the working of the new divorce law. Neither age nor social station is to be excepted. They are the wives who are in the great majority to petition for relief. One old lady, thirty years separated, demanded her divorce, so that she would not have to associate on her tombstone the name of her monster of a husband with her own! The remarriages of the divorcees are also numerous. The wife of a man condemned to twenty years' transportation, but who had died justice, cannot obtain relief till the twenty years be expired or the condemned arrested. To obtain a divorce twenty years in advance would be too generous, it seems.

Bonaparte's Conscript.

(Exchange.)

The ex-director of the conscription under the first empire computed the actual loss of men born within the limits of France and destroyed in the imperial wars from 1804 to 1815, at 1,706,000. This estimate does not include the wars of the republic, or the loss of men not born in the kingdom of France, and goes far to explain how population in France has kept low.

Cane for Army Engineers.

(Exchange.)

An ordinary looking cane of very peculiar construction has been invented by a Madrid man. It contains a complete set of topographical and telegraphic instruments, a heliograph and a lantern. It is intended for the use of engineers in the army service.

The Way of the World.

(Chicago Ledger.)

This mundane sphere is a mighty un- certain sort of place. The bitter and sweet go hand in hand, and you always strike an up grade when you are in the biggest hurry.

It is pitiful to have dim conceptions of duty; more pitiful to have vulgar and brutal conceptions of enjoyment.

A Sketch of Gibraltar.

(Belgravia.)

Military discipline is here the great order of the day. Never for one moment can you forget the ruling spirit. You dare not produce a pencil and notebook till your sketching pass is duly signed and countersigned, and even that is only given for a limited period, and with the proviso that you must make no drawing of any fortification (as if you could omit the one characteristic of the place.) At every turn you come on new batteries, great guns and mortars, with their thousand hard, black eyes, keeping watch and ward. Death's playthings everywhere. The very grass yielding only grapeshot and other dead-end fruit.

Beside the graceful flower vases are heaped up great pyramids of cannon balls fixed bayonets gleam beneath the spiked aloes; tall plumes of grass wave over plumed bonnets, and scarlet blossoms resolve themselves into tarts as first one, then another well-known regiment marches down with pipes playing, for there is a field day on the parade ground in as picturesque a spot as you are likely to find, and Spaniards and Moors, Jews and Britons are among the spectators, to say nothing of rock scorpions, as English children born on "Old Gib" are called. Doubtless, also, the Barbary apes are looking down on us from their haunts among the cliffs, where they still find a refuge, being protected by stringent laws. They are tailless, of course, as their name implies. Poor, humble-looking creatures, yet more precious than all their long-tailed brethren, inasmuch as they are the sole representatives of the monkey tribe still existing in Europe.

The City Crack-Steppers.

(Philadelphia Times.)

"See that man over there!" exclaimed a gentleman to a reporter recently, pointing to an old man who was walking down Chestnut street in front of Independence hall; the old fellow had his head bent down and seemed in deep thought. "That's a crack-stepper."

"A crack-stepper?"

"If you watch him and see how he walks. He won't step on a single crack between the flagstones, no matter how it inconveniences him. There are any quantity of men who are in the habit of stepping over the cracks in the flagstone pavements; it's a mild form of insanity; I do it myself occasionally."

"Do you? Well, most city men do. Children play games in this way, and men keep it up all their lives. Sometimes they vary it by stepping on all the cracks and taking particular care not to miss one. There goes another!"

In the course of a half hour no less than fourteen men were observed going up and down this pavement stepping over the cracks. Of fifteen men taken at random twelve acknowledged that they occasionally practiced this peculiar habit. They said they didn't know why they did it, and sometimes did it unconsciously, but the interesting fact remains that about 75 per cent. of city men are crack-steppers.

"Jockeying" in the British Navy.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

The system of "jockeying" in the British navy is a plan that should not be adopted in ours. It is practice to take a new vessel over the measured mile with a picked crew of stokers and the choicest coal. By this process—"jockeying" as it is fitly termed—the vessel is likely to develop a very high rate of speed, the ship being on a light load line, having neither her complement of armament, stores, nor crew on board. Nevertheless the speed and horsepower developed under such exceptionally favorable circumstances are credited to the vessel, and the general public, not conversant with this peculiar deception system, are led to believe that certain vessels have remarkable speed. When these vessels go into active service the speed, in the majority of cases, is considerably reduced, and the fifteen-knot craft only develops thirteen knots.

Among the numerous instances of this sort is that of the gun-boat Watchful, which, at her trial trip developed a speed in conformity with the contract of eleven and a half knots. She has now been in active service for some months, and her highest speed has come down to nine and three-quarter knots.

An Item for Dentists.

(St. James' Gazette.)

There is nothing new under the sun, and not even the modern inventor of artificial teeth can claim the honor of having been the first to supply gap toothed humanity with the subtlest of mastication knives. This has recently been proved by Italian antiquarians, who have discovered false teeth in a skull which has been excavated in an ancient Etruscan cemetery with many other curiosities at present safely stowed away at the museum of antiquities at Corneto in Tuscany. The sepulcher out of which the skull was taken dates according to experts, from the fifth or sixth century B. C., and the false teeth are nothing but animal teeth attached to the human teeth by means of small gold plates.

An Over-Stocked Profession.

(St. Louis Gazette.)

The bar at this moment is the most overstocked profession in England. The Law List of 1884 comprises 212 pages of counsel entitled to practice at the English bar, and each page contains on an average rather more than thirty names, thus yielding a grand total of about 7,200 practitioners for England and those British possessions where English counsel have a right of audience. This total does not include the members of the Scotch bar or of the Irish bar or of the bar of the Isle of Man.

LAND OF THE DOG PONY.

A Winter Ride on a Dog Train in British America.

(Butler's Book on Manitoba.)

"Dogs in the territories of the Northwest have but one function—to haul. Pointer, setter, lurcher, oxhound, greyhound, Indian, mongrel, miserable cur or the beautiful Esquimaux, all alike are destined to howl under the driver's lash, to tug wildly at the moose-skin collar, to drag until they can drag no more, and then to die. The dogs are put one after another in tandem fashion. A complete train numbers four, but three, or sometimes even two, are used. The train of dogs is harnessed to the cariole, or sled, by means of two long traces, between which the dogs stand one after another, the head of one dog being about a foot behind the tail of the dog in front of him. They are attached to the traces by a long collar, which slips on over the head and ears, and then lies close on the swell of the neck; this collar buckles on each side of the traces, which are kept from touching the ground by a back-band of leather, buttoned under the dog's ribs. The back-band and collar is generally covered with little brass bells and gay-colored ribbons. Great pride is taken by the half-breed drivers in turning out a train of dogs in good style.

"The fact is patent that in hauling, the dog is put to a work from which his whole nature revolts, with the single exception of the Esquimaux, and to haul with him is as natural as that of a pointer to point. The hauling dog's day is a long tissue of trail, for from the first streak of dawn to the close of day he is harnessed and at hard labor, with but one meal a day of two pounds of pemmican or a dozen white fish or two, as the intense cold increases and the dogs tire out. The ice cuts their feet, and the white surface is often speckled with the crimson icicles that fall from their wounded toes. The half-breed drivers too, are brutal fellows, and belabor their teams without mercy at times. This inhuman thrashing the frantic howling of dogs, the bitter and terrible cold, making up the mode of winter travel.

"From the first covering of snow the whole surface of the plain is one vast sheet of white, so bright and glistening as to render men blind, and sometimes crazy, by the continual glare. Not a sound is heard over this immense waste, save now and then at night the sharp bark of the coyote-wolf—not a speak or even a bird does the blue vault of heaven, nothing but solemn stillness and immense cold, culminating about mid winter at from 40 to 44 degrees below zero, or over 70 degrees of frost. The cold becomes piercing and a bitter wind sweeps across its surface.

"In mid-winter the snow falls every day, with a high westerly wind, veering toward the north, and thick with powder, dry ice, specks, hard as gravel, and blizzards jump up all of sudden in seemingly pleasant weather—commencing with a gale and increasing to a hurricane the wind blowing at the rate of from forty to fifty miles an hour, while the thermometer registers from 35 to 40 degrees below zero, with the clouds of snow-dust, hard as bullets, the effect can well be imagined. Men are silent; their lips are blue and refuse to utter the words they feel. Where the skin is exposed it becomes frost-bitten, and afterward rots away: eyes and nostrils are glued together, and icicles hang from the eyelids. To touch a knife with the hand would burn like a coal of fire. The hot tea freezes while it is being drank, breath freezes instantaneously into solid lumps of ice, and 40 degrees below zero means death, in a period whose duration would expire in the hours of a winter's daylight, if there was no fire or means of kindling one on the trail."

The Gift of "Tempering" Steel.

To be able to properly temper steel springs and implements may be considered a gift similar to that possessed by the "poor born." A man whose business in a certain toolshop was to temper springs, worked 22,000 consecutively, and of the whole number only six failed to pass the test; but during his temporary illness more than half the springs handled by his assistant, who has been under instruction a year, failed.

In a large manufactory of sword blades one man does all the tempering, being called in from other employment at intervals, because, although he has always been willing to instruct others, he has never had a pupil who could equal him in the work. There is a large scythe manufactory in a New England town making 14,000 dozen scythes a year, and the president of the company has for years hardened and tempered every scythe that leaves the works, because no other man in the works can do it so well.

Good for Debating Clubs.

(Exchange.)

A correspondent of The Scientific American asks if the electricity which produces the electric light is a manufactured article or is a natural element simply collected and stored. The paper says that it may be said to be manufactured, as it is produced by the expenditure of power in a machine. It adds, however, that it is probably a condition or state of natural elements.

Roughening the Surface of Cards.

(Demorest's Monthly.)

Every one is familiar with the dented or ingrained appearance of certain cards, but very few people are aware that it is artificially produced. It seems as if it were the roughness of paper or cardboard, but in reality it is the result of printing when the card is finished from a roughing stone, or a stone upon which a rough, uneven design has been etched.

The Ruby's Rank.

(Exchange.)

The ruby, says an expert, ranks for price and beauty above all other precious stones. When a perfect ruby of five carats is brought into the market a sum will be offered for it ten times the price given for a diamond of the same weight; but should it reach the weight of ten carats it is almost invaluable.

A Long-Haired Elephant.

(Inter Ocean.)

A long-haired elephant, larger and more perfect than any specimen hitherto secured, is being extricated from the ice at the mouth of the Lena delta.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

- 1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.
- 2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.
- 3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are DePauw Department.

[This department is devoted especially to the interests of DePauw University and the students. Favors are solicited.]

Miss Effie Meharry has been called home by the sickness of her grandmother.

The Phi Gamma Deltas gave a pleasant social in their hall Monday evening.

President Martin has accepted the invitation of the G. A. R. to deliver the memorial address on the 24th.

The objections of the faculty having been overcome, Philomathean literary society now meets on Wednesday night.

The Rev. Dr. Benjamin St. James Fry, editor of the Central Christian Advocate, St. Louis, will deliver an address on the occasion of the Theological commencement, May 21.

The officers of the cadet corps have target matches now once a week. In the first match, on last Friday, Major Durham and Capt. Bridges chose up, the former's side winning.

Dr. Cissel filled the lecture hour last Sunday, and delivered one of the most entertaining lectures of the year. There will be no lecture next Sunday on account of quarterly meeting at Locust Street Church.

The Sigma Chi gave a pleasant reception in their elegant hall on last Friday evening, and set a good example of sociability by inviting a number of gentlemen from the other fraternities. As entertainers, the Sigs are unexcelled.

VICTORIOUS AT THE INTER STATE.

Our University has the second time had the distinguished honor of furnishing the champion college orator of the West—four years ago the champion of six States, this year of nine. Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado having been represented this year for the first time. In 1881 Charles F. Coffin, the first representative from Asbury who had ever been successful at the State contest, carried off the laurels at the Inter State, and A. J. Beveridge, on last Thursday, duplicated the victory at Columbus, O., coming off a fairly easy victor. Victor E. Bender of Knox College, Illinois, was second, and C. H. Pomeroy, Iowa State University, third. From those who witnessed the contest and the accounts in the Columbus papers, it appears that the decision gave the utmost satisfaction to the audience. The Ohio State Journal says:

Mr. Beveridge undoubtedly made the finest impression of the evening. His carriage was graceful and he was perfectly at his ease. Indeed, he was so free from embarrassment and restraint that the criticism might possibly be made that he lacked dignity. He spoke rapidly and with correctness, and has fine control of his voice. At times he was dramatic, and the contrast between his unimportant passages and those he wished to emphasize were so great that they were rendered peculiarly effective. The applause after he had finished was loud and prolonged.

The Columbus Times says:

Mr. Beveridge showed from the start that he was perfectly at home. He at once jumped into the heart of his subject, and the audience seemed to forget that they were listening at an attempt at oratory, and were as attentive as they would be to a lawyer pleading a murder case before a bar of justice. His manner was earnest, his gestures not too profuse, but always gracefully suiting the action to the word. His dealing with this great question was statesman-like and thorough and no few words can do it justice. He passed perfectly to a climax and descended as gracefully to a close. When he bowed and retired there was a storm of applause.

When the victory was announced Friday morning at chapel it aroused great enthusiasm. Every member of the faculty was made to come forward and make a short speech, which was followed by short addresses from a student of each class. Then a large committee was appointed to prepare a reception to Mr. Beveridge on Monday morning, after which a holiday was announced, and the students adjourned. Mr. Beveridge arrived in the city Monday morning by the early I. & St. L. train, and was met at the depot by a large body of students. The cadets turned out in a body, and a salute was fired as the train pulled in. The procession proceeded to Meharry Hall, where the exercises occurred. Prof. Carhart gave an admirable account of the contest at Columbus, and was followed by addresses by President Martin, Mayor McClary, and J. E. Watson, of the Junior class, the latter making an excellent address of welcome on behalf of the students. Mr. Beveridge then came forward amid loud cheering and made a short speech thanking all for their kind reception.
